

Commando Raids May Lead to Surprise Invasion of Europe

By BILL BONI (Wide World News Service) NEW YORK, July 29—Light, flicking, annoying jabs that land first here, then there, crossing up the foes' defenses—followed suddenly by a smashing blow as his guard drops for a moment. Thus you can picture a likely pattern for the large-scale diversionary attack which, most military experts agree, is all we can expect in the way of a second front in Europe this year. The jabs are swift Commando raids, smash-and-run affairs striking now at Norway, now occupied France, again at Belgium or Holland. They keep the Germans guessing and the defense garrisons on the jump. The body blow is a major commando attack, far stronger than anything delivered so far and with the objective of winning a beachhead, an airfield and a port, and holding them as the main forces are brought in. That is the picture on paper—powerful RAF fighter sweeps to knock out enemy airplane strength (the Germans get so many of these that a few more would not tip them off that anything unusual was in the wind); Invasion barges, escorted by destroyers and motor torpedo boats and loaded with grim, hard-hitting Commandos, sliding up on some beach, wiping out gun emplacements, seizing the air field, getting control of the port (perhaps with the aid of the local citizenry); Clouds of fighter planes weaving a protective canopy overhead as transport ships shuttle across the English Channel with heavier guns, tanks, ammunition, fuel for the planes, and thousands of troops. But that is the picture only on paper. In actual fact it is a problem that means full-time work for the best military minds in London and Washington. You need more than a realist to see the difficulties that confront them: 1. For two years the Germans have built up their defenses along the western shore of the European continent. Where that shore is closest to England, those defenses are

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE The campaign for raising funds for the United Service Organizations in Fayette County has come to an end. Although, of course, all contributions are not considered in the nature ways acceptable, so, this can of a piece of USO campaign promotion, it's just an interesting sidelight. Going through some mail on my desk that had been laid aside for attention at some later and less busy time, I uncovered a letter from John Hudock, a member of the YMCA here until he resigned just about a year ago to go into the USO to help that organization, with which everyone is familiar now, "make a home away from home" for the boys in the service. John has been at the Ordnance Training Center in Maryland. Three boys came into the USO Center... one of them was from Washington C. H., he was Bob Dempsey. They played softball together here last summer. It was a happy reunion, where Bob is now, John doesn't know... but anyway, he got a letter from the boys. It speaks for itself and the USO. Here 'tis: "This is to express our appreciation for your wholehearted enthusiasm in bringing about a very pleasant and enjoyable weekend. "We, as soldiers, are very happy to see you, as civilians, doing such a wonderful job of boosting the soldier's moral. "It makes us realize that you are being good soldiers for us as well as our being good soldiers for you. "Thank your very cooperative friends there at the U.S.O. Club for us, please! "We are spreading the news of your good work as best as we can, for the purpose of furthering and at the same time bringing recognition to your efforts. "We remain your very appreciative soldiers."

More and more victory "V's" are showing up. Glenn Flint, of The Washington Lumber Co., brought to the Record Herald office a long stem of timothy with a pronounced "V" head, showing that even the lowly grass is trying to do its part toward winning the war. And early Sunday night more than one person observed a huge "V" formed by the smoke from the Cudahy Packing plant—and there's a very good reason why the Cudahy plant should be sending up its smoke in the shape of a "V". Eileen Noland, 16, daughter of H. O. Noland, and Gloria Hoppess, 16, daughter of O. W. Hoppess, certainly have established some kind of a new record for bicycle riding. A week ago they left here one morning at 6 A. M. and at 10:30 A. M. had reached the home of a relative below Serpent Mound, roughly a distance of 50 miles. After spending a week there they left at 7:30 A. M. and rode into Washington C. H. at 1 P. M., having enjoyed their trip both ways without becoming unduly weary. SUPREME COURT ASKED FOR TRIAL IN CIVIL COURT

PROTEST MILITARY TRIAL

Two U. S. Army Colonels Are Given Task of Defending Sub-Borne Saboteurs

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, July 29—(P)—Government prosecutors of seven alleged Nazi saboteurs fought a defense challenge of President Roosevelt's right to order a military trial by contending before the supreme court that the prisoners were "enemies in as practical a sense as parachutists or invading armies."

WASHINGTON, July 29—(P)—Council for seven of the eight Nazi saboteurs being tried by a military commission told the Supreme Court today that President Roosevelt's proclamation denying them access to the civil courts was "totally invalid and unconstitutional."

This challenge of the war time powers of the Chief Executive and commander-in-chief was made in a brief in support of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

In effect, the defendants' army officer counsel asked the court to take the prisoners out of the hands of the commission appointed by Mr. Roosevelt and let them be tried in the civil courts.

The request was made at an extraordinary session of the nation's highest tribunal convened on call of Chief Justice Stone. The stately Supreme Court chamber was filled by persons eager to have a spectator's part in the unusual event.

The defense attack brought a reply from prosecution counsel headed by Attorney General Biddle that: "Military trial for the petitioners endangers no traditional civil liberty. These German soldiers have already been given rights which no American would receive in Germany, and now ask for 'constitutional' privileges which we do not allow our own soldiers."

Justices Murphy and Douglas were absent from the bench when the proceedings started. The chief justice announced that

Jap War with U. S. Planned in Detail By Tokyo Military

(Editor's Note: How Tokyo's war lords plunged their nation into war against the United States and Great Britain is told from two vantage points in the following dispatches. Morris J. Harris was chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Shanghai; Max Hill was chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Tokyo. Interned at the outbreak of war, they were taken to Lourenco Marques last week and exchanged for Japanese Nationals who had been interned in the United States. With other homeward bound internees, they sailed yesterday aboard the liner Gripsholm for New York.)

GROUNDWORK FOR WAR LAID BY JAP WAR LORDS WITH AMAZING SECRECY

By MORRIS J. HARRIS LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 23—(Delayed)—(P)—To China and her millions, the outbreak of war between the United States and Japan was a complete surprise—but not to the Japanese and their henchmen in occupied areas there. Despite amazing secrecy of the titanic move, a majority of the Japanese in China knew that war with another foe was near, while Americans and other foreigners and Chinese wishfully felt it couldn't happen. A million Japanese soldiers and another million Japanese civilians in China were in the know. And as one man they kept their mouths shut.

The revelation of how Japanese authorities had marshalled the legions of their countrymen in China into regimented secrecy came out after Pearl Harbor. Then they unpacked detailed plans of the war's prosecution which, of course, included the use of uncounted thousands of Japanese "civilians" in China in aiding the armed forces in every describable way.

Pearl Harbor stunned a majority of Americans in China, just as it did the people at home. The enemy's initial successes caused amazement and alarm over the safety of Hawaii; wonderment about defense preparations at the mid-Pacific outpost; and about what the Army, Navy and air force were doing that December morning.

Japanese propaganda played upon the theme that the defenders "were out of the night before." To the elated Japanese the lick gotten in at Pearl Harbor was the achievement of achievements in their empire's history.

To the more sober Japanese the bombs that blasted Pearl Harbor started a fire which will either make the Japanese empire the world's greatest or break it.

Polite surprise seemed to be the attitude of Togo's secretary. An hour later—at 10 o'clock—the secretary telephoned and said Togo would wait at his official residence until midnight for Grew.

Code clerks labored meanwhile behind locked doors over the text of President Roosevelt's communication to the emperor. They delivered a completed text at 11:45 P. M.

Grew drove through Tokyo's deserted streets to Togo's residence. He entered and shook hands with Togo. Grew began reading the Presidential message. He left in 25 minutes.

It was understood that Grew saw a look of surprise on Togo's face from all indications the military had not informed the foreign office of its plans to attack

Heavy Toll of Nazis Taken By Russians as They Fight Fiercely On

MOSCOW, July 29—(P)—The Russian defense of the Caucasus showed signs of stiffening today as the steadily reinforced German drive across the lower Don shaped into spearheads toward Kishchevka, Salsk and the Tikhoretsk-Stalingrad railroad linking the oil fields to central Russia. The Germans also were meeting stiff resistance against a secondary thrust developing down a spur line angling southeast from Bataisk to the junction with the Tikhoretsk-Stalingrad railway at Salsk, 100 miles southeast of Rostov.

By ROGER D. GREENE

British warplanes smashed at Hamburg in another huge-scale assault before dawn today as the crisis in Russia grew more acute and Germany betrayed fresh alarm over the prospect of an Allied invasion of western Europe.

DNB, the German news agency, announced that Nazi SS (Elite Guard) troops moving from the Soviet front to duty with the western command in the occupied countries would march through Paris today.

"They are equipped with new vehicles and new weapons," DNB said.

Dispatches from Bern Switzerland, quoted German military quarters in Berlin as saying they believed an invasion attempt would be made by the Allies.

Simultaneously, the Berlin radio asserted that more than 200,000 skilled workers "have used a half-million tons of concrete monthly for fortifications along the (English) channel coast."

Still another Nazi-inspired dispatch said the German military commander in Holland had inspected defense installations along the Dutch coast.

Behind all these outward signs of nervousness in Berlin, Allied observers saw two possibilities: 1. Nazi propaganda was trying to conceal a condition of only "skeleton defense" left in western Europe as a result of manpower detailed for use against Russia, thus hoping to bluff the Allies out of an invasion attempt.

2. Germany was genuinely alarmed and was rushing preparations to meet a cross-channel offensive.

Observers contrasted the Berlin claim that Nazi troops were being shifted from Russia back to the channel coast with the Russian high command's statement several days ago that 11 German divisions had been sent from France to the Soviet war front.

Whatever the truth, RAF warplanes in great numbers attacked Germany, northern France, Belgium and Holland during the night in a series of "softening up" attacks such as might precede an invasion attempt.

THOUSANDS ARE EXPECTED FOR NIGHT SESSION

Wide Range of Exhibits Attract Attention Of Crowds With the largest Tuesday night crowd on record, the Fayette County Fair got off to a good start, and the opening day was being followed by a good-sized afternoon crowd with indications that several thousands would be present for the second night. Indications also were that the attendance at the pageant, "America on Parade," would be a large one, due to the huge success of the pageant the opening night. It was given hearty public approval. Weather for opening the races was perfect, and the track was in ideal condition for the first day's racing program. Exhibits were all in place Tuesday evening or early Wednesday morning, so that Fair visitors Wednesday had an opportunity to see all of the exhibits. The Merchants' Building, as usual, is one of the chief attractions on the grounds, and the Ohio Hereford Show, housed in the new barn just erected, is drawing a great deal of attention. There are 64 head of Herefords in the show, and these will be judged Thursday. The 4-H Calf Club exhibits are also drawing their share of attention, as well as the other livestock exhibits. Poultry, flower and other exhibits are being inspected carefully while the photographic exhibit in the Merchants' Building is attracting a great deal of interest. Fair officials Wednesday afternoon expressed themselves as well satisfied with the progress of the Fair, and said indications point to a highly successful Fair this year. Tuesday night's attendance was estimated at upward of 3,000.

FOOD SHORTAGE IS NOT LIKELY

But President Warns That Americans May Feel War's Pinch in Other Ways

By JOHN WIGGINS WASHINGTON, July 29—(P)—Progressive shortages in essential supplies appeared likely today to bring more forcibly to every home what President Roosevelt termed the need of a greater realization of the seriousness of war.

Asking full civilian participation in a scrap salvage drive and warning of forthcoming shortages in many foods, the President said at a press conference yesterday that the situation had yet to be realized by many people in the country.

He declared that while there would be no general food shortage, many specific items available now would be lacking later. A current shortage of meats in some areas he added, was symptomatic of conditions which will produce deficiencies of certain foods in the future.

The President attributed the lack of meat to the fact that the armed services have grown to about 4,000,000 men, with a greater consumption of meat than in normal times; purchase of more and better cuts by people with more money to spend, and arrival of the off-season for beef.

SAYS JUDGE TO JUDGE—COLUMBUS, July 29—(P)—Common Pleas Judge Dana F. Reynolds yesterday ordered Common Pleas Judge Fred W. Everett, Jr., of Jackson County to pay $100 temporary alimony to Mrs. Helen L. Everett, who now lives with her mother here.

Reports of Parachutes Send G-Men to Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, July 29—(P)—The 1,100-acre plant of the Baldwin Locomotive Works at nearby Eddystone was searched by Coast Guardsmen, Federal agents and company police today after three employees reported seeing something resembling a parachute dropped from a plane about 2,000 feet over the plant last night. Baldwin is one of the nation's largest tank manufacturers. The three employees, at work in different parts of the plant, said a dark object dangled from the parachute. They said it resembled a man, but added that visibility was poor because of mist. The plane was reported sighted about 11 P. M.

Victory in Russia Might Give Hitler Resources To Make Nazis Unbeatable

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(Wide World News Service)

We know that if Hitler can smash the Russian Army and make conquest of the Caucasus and Middle East during the few remaining weeks of good fighting weather, he will have acquired resources and strategic advantages which will give him a tremendous, and perhaps unconquerable, strength as overlord of Europe.

We know, too, that if the Russians can muster the strength to halt the invaders where they now are, we shall have the Fuehrer as neatly on the toasting fork as the devil can hope to get him in the long run.

But what happens if the Nazi leader is only partially successful? Where will he stand, for instance, if he succeeds in cutting Russia proper off from the Caucasian oil and other resources, and its lifeline to the Persian gulf, but fails to secure those resources for himself?

Things might turn out that way. The mighty striking power being shown by the Germans may enable them at least to throw a barrier across the mouth of the Caucasus.

However, it's one thing for Hitler to establish such a barrier, and it's quite another for him to fight his way down the Caucasian Isthmus to Aladdin's lamp. Soon the great, level plain of the northern Caucasus will give way to the mighty mountain range which reaches across the Black Sea to the Caspian. There are routes along the coast, but they are narrow and it's hard to believe that the Reds couldn't defend them.

So let's say the Nazi chief has established this barrier but is himself blocked from fresh resources. What then?

Viewing the question through the eyes of experts who have analyzed all aspects of the situation, we can say that Hitler's strength will deteriorate while that of the Allies increase. This is so because the war already has run two years longer than Hitler expected, and he is getting to the bottom of the huge supplies which he piled up over several years in preparation for war. There is no way of replenishing those supplies unless he can break through to the outside world for them.

British-American agricultural experts in London say the Germans this winter will face the most serious food situation they have experienced since the war started.

Not only are food supplies terribly low, but there has been widespread destruction of the means of replenishing them. Germany is better off than most, because she has plundered the conquered countries, but the lean cows have devoured the fat and the seven years of plenty are gone.

Even worse, from Hitler's standpoint, is his need of oil. He must have that not only for his fighting machines but to keep his war industries going. And other supplies are needed.

All this gives point to the warning issued yesterday to the German people by British Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris that British and American bombers were ready to devastate the Reich, city by city.

Hitler can't compete with such air power without fresh resources. And he must be equipped for the land invasion which will come one of these days.

MEN FROM HERE STAND IN RAIN FOR FIRST MEAL

Scouting and Night Patrol Stressed in Maneuvers in Hocking County Hills

The men who went from here last Sunday with the heavy weapons outfit of the State Guard for a week of training and "hardening" in the hills of Hocking County had to line up in the rain for their first meal in Camp Zaleski, a belated letter from Lieutenant H. Condon Campbell disclosed.

Lieut. Campbell said the company, which left here at 8:15 A. M., arrived in camp at 11 A. M. where the busses were unloaded immediately and quarters set up. In less than half an hour it started to rain, his letter said emphasizing that "it really poured" for about two hours. However, there had been time to get everything moved into the barracks which had previously been occupied by men in the CCC camp which was abandoned several months ago.

Mess, Lieut. Campbell's letter said, is cooked on outdoor ranges but the men are seated and eat under cover in the mess hall which was formerly used as a garage. There was some difficulty in getting in the company's supplies, which he said, threw the first evening meal more than an hour late. But, he added, "everything is organized now and running smoothly."

Tuesday morning the company went into the field for training from 8 until 10 o'clock and then returned to camp for a lecture on hygiene and sanitation.

Captain W. B. Hyer, a wounded veteran of the first World War and commander of the Washington C. H. outfit, has been named camp instructor on machine guns. Lieut. Campbell wrote, explaining that this means he has a special detail from each unit in camp. This, he wrote, is considered by other officers and men "quite an honor" for the Washington C. H. company.

This company and the headquarters company from Columbus, Lieut. Campbell wrote, are the only infantry units in Camp Zaleski. The others are naval militia companies from Columbus and Cleveland. There are about 400 men in camp.

Camp Zaleski is situated on top of a high hill in the Hocking State Forest. The men all like it there, Lieut. Campbell wrote, and described the quarters as "very nice."

At the time the letter was being written the men were taking mass calisthenics to help condition them. This is scheduled routine for 45 minutes every day.

The training stresses scouting, patrolling and "guerrilla warfare" very extensively, Lieut. Campbell's letter said.

"The men have plenty of hard work ahead. On Friday we start at 1:30 P. M. and continue on maneuvers with a night marching problem until 10 P. M. The men realize they are in for strenuous training and all are doing their best so they will come back home schooled and prepared for any emergency that may confront them."

The concluding paragraph of the letter said that all the men are in good physical condition and not one on the sick list.

If an Army rookie is asked to locate six feet of skirmish line, he should forget it. It's just Army humor.

The seventh and eighth races at Roosevelt are the big betting races ... Many, of course, try to get even after being hooked ... STAFF ALL SET FOR SEASON TO OPEN IN FALL

George Miraben To Coach Basketball—Old Junior High Coaches Remain

The problem of coaching staff for the Washington C. H. High School was believed solved, at least for the time being, Superintendent A. B. Murray of the city schools said as he revealed Wednesday that he had just received a signed contract for a head football coach and completed arrangement for a head basketball coach.

Jerry Kissell, Supt. Murray said, had returned his contract to guide the destinies of the Blue Lions on the gridiron this fall and added that George Miraben has been assigned the task of directing the Blue and White basketball squad.

Kissell is a graduate of Wittenberg College and will come here from Bradford where he has had with Supt. Murray described as "four successful years" as coach and teacher.

In addition to acting as head football coach, Kissell is to have charge of the physical education of the boys. He will take over the position left vacant by the resignation last week of Coach Fred Pierson who went into the United States Coast Guard with a commission of lieutenant, junior grade. Thomas Doyle, assistant coach, had resigned previously to accept a lieutenant's commission in the Coast Guard.

Coach Kissell, Supt. Murray said, comes from a family of teachers and his brother, George Kissell, was one of the king pins of the Purdue eleven in Big Ten competition. He later went into coaching at Muskingum College but is now in the service.

Kissell is to be Miraben's assistant in basketball and Miraben is to be Kissell's assistant in football.

L. M. Morris is being counted on to carry on next season as coach of the Junior High School Football squad.

Barring enlistments in the service, the coaching staff of WHS is now all set for the opening of school, Supt. Murray said.

Vandy Tough As Reds Beat Phils Twice

Bucky Walters will be going after victory No. 13 when the Cincinnati Reds meet the Phils in Philadelphia for the last game of the three-game series Wednesday night. His probable opponent will be Earl Naylor, a converted outfielder.

The Reds swamped the Phils Tuesday night for a double win behind some of the best pitching in either league on that day. Johnny Vander Meer rang up his tenth victory of the season by hurling a two-hitter in which only the first and last batters to face him registered safeties. Stan Benjamin, the first man to face Vandy, smacked the first pitch into the bleachers for a homer, but it only made things tough for his team mates for they got not another hit until after two were out in the last inning and the Reds coasted to an easy 8 to 1 victory.

Ray Starr finally got over the jinx hurdle to win his 13th of the season, a five-hitter, in the second game by a score of 3 to 1.

MAJOR LEAGUES CHANGE LITTLE ON TWIN BILLS

Reds and Giants Each Win Both Ends of Doubles And Race Continues

The major league standings underwent no material changes in Tuesday's round of games despite the double headers scheduled in the senior circuit.

The two teams—the Reds and the Giants—putting up the most interesting race in either loop, each won both ends of their double bills. So, the battle for the No. 3 spot in the National League still holds the general spotlight.

The St. Louis Browns, who had won 15 of their previous 18 games were handed a setback by the Washington Senators, 9 to 4, at St. Louis in a twilight game in which it took just a single inning to turn the trick. The Senators opened fire in the second with a barrage of hits that sent five runs across before they could be stopped.

The Boston Red Sox inflated their second place margin to two full games by beating the Cleveland Indians again 3-1 with all their runs coming on Ulysses Lupien's double with the bases loaded in the second inning. Ted Williams went hitless.

At Chicago Lefty Ed Smith absorbed his 17th shellacking as the New York Yankees overpowered the White Sox 8-3 with Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller and Joe Gordon hitting home runs.

At New York the Giants swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs 9-5 and 3-0. The first seven Giants to come to bat in the first inning of the first game made hits, to give Carl Hubbell a six-run start.

The Cincinnati Reds took both ends of a doubleheader from the Phils 8-1 and 3-1; Johnny Vander Meer allowed only two hits in the opening, and Ray Starr hurled a five-hitter in the second game to get his 13th victory.

At Boston Johnny Sain, making his first start for the Braves, hurled three-hit shutout ball for eight innings and then let the Pittsburgh Pirates tie the score at three all in the ninth. The Braves won 4-3 when Nanny Fernandez bunted with the bases loaded to squeeze across the deciding run.

Brewers Tied With Blues For AA Lead

(By the Associated Press)

The ever-tightening American Association pennant race had a pair of teams deadlocked for first place today and a third contender running a scant half game behind.

Toledo whipped Milwaukee for the second straight time last night, and the defeat, coupled with another double header split by Kansas City and Columbus, left Milwaukee and Kansas City tied for the lead. A half game behind was Columbus.

In sixth place, but only five games off the pace, were the rampaging Toledo Mudhens. Their 6 to 0 victory in last night's game, abbreviated because of weather conditions, was their sixth straight win and their 16th in the last 22 games.

Kansas City scored its decision over Columbus in the first game, a 2 to 0 shutout by Charley Wensloff. It was the third straight shutout in the current series between the two rivals. Columbus won the nightcap 3 to 2, a deserved triumph for Ted Wilks, who permitted three hits.

St. Paul broke an eight game losing streak in the first of two games with Louisville, winning 7 to 4, but returned to its old habit in the nightcap, bowing 5 to 4 in 10 innings.

Indianapolis turned back Minneapolis 11 to 9, in 12 innings.

strongest. Where the defenses are weakest, they also are farthest removed from the threat of attack.

Also worth remembering is the fact that in September, 1940, when almost every factor was in his favor and Britain had little more than the RAF and the fleet for her defense, Hitler still did not risk an invasion.

2. Between Norway's North Cape and southern France, the Germans now are believed to have some 30 divisions, probably all but 10 of them in France and the low countries, the most likely invasion targets. In Germany proper there must be additional thousands of troops in training or on furlough who could be rushed to any danger point.

Since the main purpose of any diversionary attack would be to force the Nazi high command to shift some of its divisions from Russia and thus ease the pressure on the Soviet armies, the Allied attack would have to be executed by 20 divisions, or 300,000 fighting men, at the very least.

Even across the narrowest portion of the Channel—20 miles—that would entail a tremendous transportation task, at the risk of losing many of the ships for which we already are so hard-pressed.

3. The Nazi defenses are deep, and they are mobile. They have big guns, some fixed and some mobile, ranged along the coast from Den Helder in Holland probably as far as Cherbourg.

They have fixed machinegun posts in their first line of defense. They have fortified strong points—each railway yard, each highway junction—farther back, so devised that they can be a threat even to a force which has effected a break-through. They have highly mobile mechanized units on call, and extensive railway systems, notably in Holland and Belgium, for feeding troops and equipment to any threatened area in a hurry.

4. The Germans hold a long stretch of coastline. On paper it can be attacked at almost any point. In practice the range of operation will be limited by the effective range of fighter-plane screen, and since most RAF fighters were designed primarily for defense of the British Isles that range is limited to not much more than 250 miles.

5. Uppermost in the minds of the grand strategists must be the effect of any operation on the peoples of the occupied countries. An attack that fell short of its objective not only would have a tremendously depressing effect on the thousands now under the Nazi heel, but would expose them—especially if they had co-operated to any degree with the landing force—to fearful reprisals at the Germans' hands. "Too little and too soon" can be just as damaging as "too little and too late."

6. Likely to block any immediate action is the fact that the nights in those areas are so short now. Between nightfall and daybreak there is little more than

PACER SENATOR ABBE SOLD AFTER SENSATIONAL RACING ON MAJOR EASTERN TRACKS

Senator Abbe, one of the greatest pacers ever to go from this section and one whose sensational performances on the eastern tracks have been watched intently by the scores of followers of harness racing in Fayette County, has been sold to the Saratoga Stables of Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Senator Abbe was owned, trained and driven by O. H. Lowen of Wilmington who developed him at the Clinton County Fairground track.

Word of the sale of Senator Abbe was telegraphed here by five hours of darkness, enough for invasion barges to cross the Channel to France or the North Sea to Belgium or Holland at only a very few points.

A likely place for such a landing? It might be one of the islands in the Dutch Province of Zeeland—an island primarily because, once seized, it could be defended more easily against mechanized counter attack than any mainland holding.

The island of Walcheren could be such a site, with beaches suitable for barge landings, with a good harbor—Flushing—that could accommodate transport ships, with a good location opposite a portion of the English coast which abounds in Estuaries, and probably with a number of air fields, since it is almost entirely flat.

RED TAPE WEAKNESS

Some United Nations disasters can be laid straight at the door of the high commands. Too many of the generals seem to think in terms of "classic warfare." That was a relatively leisurely kind of warfare, and it was developed and perfected in the days when tanks and planes and similar machines were minor weapons.

The Germans and the Japs think in terms of dynamic warfare. They are daring. They take long chances. They use the weapon of surprise to the limit.

Libya provides a tragic example of that. As Newsweek says, "British generals figured it would take Rommel a week to ten days to thrust past the Egyptian frontier after the British withdrawal. It took him a matter of hours."

Germany has also been superior in the science of logistics which simply means the handling of supplies. They have moved more equipment, and moved it faster by far, than have the defenders. In short, the United Nations still have a lot of red tape to cut—and they have a lot to learn.

POLITICS CAN LOSE A WAR

We can take a vital lesson from the story of France and her fall as to the danger of politics mixed in the war effort.

Pork-barrel politics and wartime efficiency cannot be mixed with success. This lesson has still to be learned, as we can see by the administration's act in approving the Florida barge canal project. It is particularly unfortunate that a 30-30 tie should have left the decision to Vice President Henry A. Wallace, who probably felt he could not discreetly vote against an "administration measure."

The bill in question authorizes certain pipe lines, which may be necessary and probably can be built in time to help, indirectly, to win the war. The proposal to eliminate the obnoxious provision for the barge canal would have left the pipe lines to be constructed, but would have eliminated a needless extravagance—a canal which the Roosevelt Administration has tried to get for years.

It is safe to assume that the barge canal across Florida will not be ready for use within three years. If that is the fact, there is no reason to suppose it will help in the conduct of this war. And if it does not help, it will hinder. Such a construction project, requiring valuable materials and a large volume of skilled labor, means direct competition with essential industries while the war is on. Therefore it can be said flatly that the barge canal project will hinder the prosecution of the war.

Such decisions as this on the part of our legislators tend to weaken the confi-

Washington—If there's the least bit of an American sentiment in opposition to all-out Yankee war participation it certainly isn't mentioned by any candidate for a senatorial or a representative's seat at the coming election. That is, there's no mention of any such thing except as a treasonable manifestation deserving of isolation in an internment camp or of extinction by a firing squad.

There's no doubt in my own mind that the congressional aspirants all are perfectly honest in their utterances concerning the pending conflict.

It's true that a few of 'em were skeptical, before Pearl Harbor, of the wisdom of administration policies which, in their opinion, were calculated to involve us in the world struggle a bit unnecessarily. They're ardent 100 percents now, however. In fact they generally are rather extra-vehement, perhaps partly with a view of obliteration of their earlier semi-clamminess from public memory. As remarked above I haven't a suspicion that one of these chaps is a particle less genuinely enthusiastic than anyone else for the Axis defeat.

If there were such an exception, though, he'd be far from admitting it—not with his chances at the polls in mind, and he wouldn't be campaigning for himself if he didn't want to win. Not a Protest.

The truth is that American sentiment is materially more sol-dence of the whole people. They represent the spirit of the pork barrel, not the spirit of victory by means of total war. To win, we shall have to subordinate every other consideration to the exigencies of war. That means no pork-barrel appropriations, no legislation for special interest groups, and no favoritism toward pressure blocs in the levying of taxes or the freezing of prices, wages and rents.

The administration will get 100 percent cooperation from the people if it gives 100 percent support to the war by its own action.

The American people must go without a long list of things to which they are accustomed, in order that vital materials may be used for the war effort. They must pay unprecedented taxes, and on top of that, invest a substantial share of their earnings in War Stamps and Bonds. This is part of the price that all are willingly paying to gain victory in the greatest war in world history. But, while doing this, the American people are entitled to demand that the government itself take its own medicine and eliminate preventable waste.

Science Studies Reactions of Body to Heat and Cold

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MEDICAL science has been very much interested in the last few years in the reaction of the body to heat and cold. At this season of the year most people are interested in the reaction of the body to heat.

It is a curious and interesting fact that the fingers and toes exhibit the greatest rise in temperature of any part when the body is heated.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ture of any part when the body is heated. This is probably due to the fact that in the fingers and toes the general reaction of the body to heat is capable of the largest amount of variation. By this I mean that the reaction of the body to heat is, first, to dilate all the superficial capillary blood vessels and then to throw out a thin layer of perspiration which, on drying, reduces the temperature and hence cools the blood in the dilated capillaries.

The fingers and toes have the largest amount of capillary expansion and are very sensitive in responding to changes in the nervous reflexes which cause dilatation of the capillaries. Also the fingers and toes do not sweat very much and hence retain the heat due to the dilated capillaries.

While this has all been proved in very solemn, scientific fashion, it seems to me that human beings have instinctively known this for a long time. The instinct to bathe hands and wrists, to go barefoot in hot weather, to wade or treat the feet to cold water from the hydrant, all point to an instinctive knowledge that reduction of the temperature of the fingers and toes will reduce the temperature of the whole body.

Seasonable Variation
Scientists have also shown that there is a seasonable variation in the capacity of the skin to react to heat. It is possible to measure the time between applying an impulse to the automatic nervous system and the time when the capillary blood vessels begin to dilate.

This period, which is called the clearing time, begins to lengthen progressively in the body, reaches a high level in December which is maintained until spring. This has been proved in observations on the same individual year after year. This variation probably explains why we are so much more uncomfortable in the late spring and early summer heat than we are later on in the summer; the body has not had an opportunity to adjust itself so that rapid cooling reactions can occur.

These experiments, of course, apply to those living continuously in a temperate climate with a wide variation the year around. I know of no such experiments, but I would like to see some on people who live the year around in a fairly hot climate, and on those who regularly go to warm climates during the winter months.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. R. W.: Is it injurious for a person to take a teaspoonful of cascara every night? I find it the best thing I have ever tried for elimination.

Answer: I do not favor the regular use of any cathartic, but cascara is probably the least harmful. However, instead of taking a fixed dose, such as a teaspoonful, measure out the number of drops you need. Maybe a teaspoonful is too much. Cascara, since it is liquid, has an advantage over tablets in that one can learn after a few trials to get the exact dose in drops.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

DIAN SPREAD out two large blankets. Bill and Paul found some planks and made a sort of lean-to, so that they could have shade if they wanted it.

"Imagine having an island like this to come to," Bill said. "I should think you kids would have been coming here all the time."

"Oh, we came plenty of times," Dian said. "Especially Paul and some other boys and myself. I was an adventurous sort of person, in my imagination, anyway." She smiled up at Paul. "Remember the time we had been reading about Cleopatra and Mark Antony—and how excited we got?"

"Yep!" said Paul. "And how we persuaded Claire to be Cleopatra." "And placed her in the old flat-bottomed boat for her trip down the Nile."

"And the boat hit a rock."

"And Claire did a dive overboard."

"It wasn't so funny, I'll have you know," Claire cut in. "I nearly drowned, with my draperies getting tangled in my feet." She took Bill's arm. "Come on, Bill, I'll show you the other side of the island. The whole place isn't much bigger than a city block."

Bill hesitated. "Shouldn't we stay and help?" he said.

"Trot along," Dian urged. "Paul and I are practical-minded. We'll have things all settled by the time you get back." She handed Bill an empty pail. "There's a spring on the other side, so while you're there, you might as well bring back some water."

Bill took the pail. Claire almost pulled him away.

"A walk," she said, "will give you an appetite for Mother's marvelous fried chicken."

"I'm starved as it is," he said.

Paul watched them move off, and shook his head. "Well, there they go," he said wearily.

"Buck up," said Dian; "they'll be back."

"Sure. Of course. And maybe engaged all over again."

Dian patted his shoulder. "I'll lure Bill away after lunch," she said, "and leave you alone with Claire."

"Will you, Dian?" Paul brightened. "Thanks a lot."

"Haven't you made any progress at all?" Dian asked.

"Very little," said Paul. "I think Mrs. Lester's on Bill's side, too. I was alone with her for a little while the other evening, when Claire was showing Bill their huge grape arbor—and—"

"Dragging Bill off to show him things seems to be a habit of Claire's," Dian interrupted. "But pardon me—go on. You were alone with Mrs. Lester. What happened?"

"Oh, she pumped me about how Claire would have to live if she married me," Paul explained, "and then made comparisons. I mean, she then let me know that Bill had a penthouse studio, that he went to nightclubs, gay dinners—things like that. As though I didn't know it already—Claire not being at all reticent about the matter."

"We do have our troubles, don't we, Paul?" said Dian.

"You, too?"

"I should say so. I seem now to be booked to take Aunt Martha's place as the Ardendale spinster."

"Say, Dian," Paul said, looking at her puzzled, "what's up?"

"Oh, nothing at all, except that I've a hunch that Aunt Martha's going to land Jerome Carr. And that, as you know, will leave little Dian all alone in the world."

Dian held up her hand, and smiled. "Wait a minute! No sympathetic tears, please. I've been hoping Jerome would come to appreciate Aunt Martha. But I forgot that if he did, and Aunt Martha decided to become mistress of the banker's mansion, little Dian would be on her own for a fact."

"Maybe Fred Mayhew will come back," said Paul. "After all, he hasn't married the New York glamor girl yet."

"And if he did come back—what?"

"You could marry him as planned back in high school days, and—"

"And live scrappily ever after," Dian cut in. "No, thank you, Paul. I have no urge to be tossed aside and picked up at will." She looked off in the direction Claire and Bill had taken. "That's where I seem to differ from certain other people I might mention." She lifted the bowl of potato salad from his box.

"Oh, well, I can always retire to the farm, and become famous as the female hermit who was disappointed in love—jilted—and what have you."

"You talk like a nut!" Paul accused.

"Maybe I am one," said Dian.

"But just think what the generations to come will have to look forward to. They can bring parties out to the farm to peer at me. I'll be something of a legend." She turned back to Paul. "Imagine, Paul—me a legend. I'll be the woman who lost one would-be husband to a gal on a boat, and another would-be husband to her aunt. And—"

"Oh, cut it," Paul said. "You'll have me weeping in this coffee pot. And too much salt's bad for coffee."

When everything was in readiness, Dian straightened up and looked about the island.

"Sweet place," she said softly. "Childhood's paradise. Shall we go for the others now?"

"Yes, let's do," said Paul. "It's time they were back."

They moved along a path, suddenly silent—each lost in thought. They climbed a slight rise and looked toward the other side of the island. At first they could see nothing at all of Bill and Claire. Then they saw that the two people were swimming. Bill's arms strong and brown, were rising and falling in the sunlight. Claire, swimming more slowly, was following him.

"They might have waited for us," said Paul.

"Do stop grousing," Dian said. She started down the path toward the spring. "We might as well fill the pail ourselves, and have it ready."

"Let Bill fill it and carry it himself," Paul said. "It's time he made himself useful."

"That's petty," Dian said. "He has made himself useful."

"Yes, useful as a—b—buttinsky," said Paul. "Trying to steal my girl—trying to—"

"Oh, shut up!" Dian said.

By now Bill and Claire had come out of the water. They were standing on the narrow stretch of sandy beach. Claire took off her bathing cap and shook out her hair. It shone like burnished gold in the sunlight.

"Here, Bill," she said, "tie that string there in the back, will you?" She turned her back to Bill. "It's come loose."

"Yes, ma'am," said Bill. He stepped close to Claire, put out his hand, touched her warm soft shoulder. And then she was in his arms. "You're a regular devil," he said huskily.

And kissed her.

Paul gasped. Then he swore under his breath.

"Why, the, the—" he said. And started down the path.

Broadway's Busiest Man? - Irving Berlin

By MARK BARRON

(Wide World News Service)

NEW YORK—Probably the busiest man on Broadway is Irving Berlin, the song writer who has banged out scores of hits on his battered piano from the time he came up first with his triumphant "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Today his interests consist of: 1. Author and producer of the new Broadway musical hit, "This Is the Army," the all-soldier show being presented by Uncle Sam for the army emergency relief fund.

2. Author and composer of the new Paramount picture, "Holiday Inn," which stars Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire singing Berlin's new hit score which has such of his songs as "White Christmas" and "Be Careful, It's My Heart."

3. President of the Irving Berlin Music Publishers. (He doesn't have to worry about this branch of his enterprises, for if his catalogue needs a number he simply composes one himself.)

4. Singer and actor in his production of "This Is the Army" in which he appears in the uniform he wore as a sergeant in 1918 singing "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning" just as he did in his army show. "Yip, Yip, Yaphank" in the First World War. When his daughter, 15-year-old Mary Ellen, heard him sing this at the opening night of "This Is the Army" she rushed backstage, threw her arms around him, and said, "Daddy, you really ought to go on the stage."

Berlin's office, just across the street from Broadway's famous Winter Garden theater, is about half business office and half Tin Pan Alley studio.

Here he is constantly moving from his business desk over to his piano to compose or sing a song, and so closely does he combine the two phases of his activities that frequently he will absent mindedly begin carrying on his business conversations in a music writer's perfect lyric form.

rhyming his conversation as if he were writing a song.

Aside from the Broadway production of "This Is the Army," which is bringing in about $45,000 a week into the Army Relief Fund, the movie rights have been sold to Warner Brothers for a first installment of $250,000, with the army fund to share in subsequent profits. The film, like the stage show, also will have an all soldier cast.

Berlin, just as he did with his "Holiday Inn," also will go to Hollywood to supervise the transfer of the show to the screen.

Berlin has another absent minded habit when he is at his ancient piano playing and singing his songs. He will suddenly break into the middle of singing one of his lyrics and apologetically say, "You must excuse me. You realize I'm not a Crosby or an Astaire."

He fails to add that he is "Busy Berlin."

Barbed wire used by Uncle Sam's fighting forces is vastly different from that used on American farms. Army and Marine barbed wire is much heavier and the barbs, about three inches in length, are more vicious than ordinary barbed wire.

Mila Kay Weatherly Guest Of Honor at Lovely Party Celebrating Sixth Birthday

Celebrating the sixth birthday of her older daughter, Mila Kay, Mrs. Alfred E. Weatherly entertained with a gay party on Tuesday afternoon, inviting twenty-five youngsters to their home on Briar Avenue, from 2 to 5 o'clock.

It was a beautiful afternoon, and the large spacious yard of the home was ideal for the merry romping of the group of youngsters.

There were hunts and games hilariously enjoyed, with a prize presented to Sharon Rettig in the hunt.

A delightful feature of the afternoon, and one the center of all the young eyes, was the lemonade stand which had been erected on the lawn, and where the youngsters satisfied their thirst time and time again.

The pretty little blonde guest of honor, who wore a becoming chambray frock of pink and white candy stripes and whose long light braids were tied with pink bows, opened her large array of lovely gifts, and made sweet and cunning responses.

Delightful party refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to the young tots who were seated in a large circle on the floor of the dining room. Attracting all attention was the beautifully decorated birthday cake, bearing the honor guest's name, Happy Birthday, and lighted by tapers in pastel shades. Baskets of candies were given as favors of the party.

Sharing in the day's pleasures, was Mila's cunning little sister, Toni, who is as dark in coloring as Mila is blonde, making an outstanding combination.

Mrs. Ted Irvin and Mrs. Hazel McNorton assisted Mrs. Weatherly in the afternoon's pleasures.

The guests included Mrs. Albert Weatherly and son, Gary Lee, and Mrs. Peter Motta, and sons, George and Joe, of Dayton and Lois Ann Short, Jane Van Vorhis, Marlene and Darlene Thornton, Shirley Reigel, Shirley Carter, Sharon Rettig, Janet Ann McCord, Ann Robinson, Mary McDonald, Patty Hurt, Carolyn Beatty, Elizabeth Ann Loudner, Nancy Carol Reno, Ann Dews, Julia Andrews, Diane Elliott, Gene Aughinbaugh and Douglas Thompson.

Miss Linda Paxson Honors Three Charming Ladies With Lovely Dessert - Bridge

Miss Linda Paxson added to the week's social calendar, an exceptionally beautiful party Tuesday evening, when she complimented two recent brides, Mrs. Robert Hook and Mrs. Robert Fennig, and an out-of-town guest, Miss Ann Morton, of New York City.

It was a very lovely affair, the hospitalities extended by the attractive hostess with charming cordiality always present in her entertaining and the large rooms of the spacious home a bower of midsummer beauty, with its mass of vivid flowers.

The group of four young ladies made a beautiful receiving line, dressed in summer cottons of ultra-smart designs.

Using a most unusual motif, Miss Paxson carried out the Kentucky State theme in her entertaining, centering the small tables for the dessert-course, with the trumpet flower. Marking each place and later used as tallies, were handpainted placecards, bearing this lovely flower, signifying our neighboring state.

The dessert course was most delicious, and appealing on the hot summer night.

Seven tables of bridge were merrily in play during the evening, and enjoyed in the comfortably cool rooms of the charming old home.

Prizes for the bridge game were presented to Miss Helen Simons, Mrs. Jack Hagerty and Miss Laura Schadel.

Miss Paxson also presented lovely gifts to the two young brides, and gorgeous corsages to Miss Morton, and to Miss Marion Humble, of Newark, who is the guest of Miss Ann Morton, of this city.

GROUNDWORK FOR WAR LAID BY JAP WAR LORDS WITH AMAZING SECRECY

Japan utterly.

The minute Tokyo flashed the news of the attacks, Japan's long-perfected machine in occupied China went into action swiftly and overwhelmingly.

With amazing promptness and precision the Japanese descended in the early morning hours upon Allied Nationals, their institutions and offices throughout occupied China.

The Associated Press office in Shanghai, like many others there, was sealed by Japanese who arrived with minutely detailed diagrams of every establishment.

The procedure clicked precisely. By noon everything American, British and Dutch had been bagged. In Shanghai Army and Navy gendarmes plastered up thousands of big notices telling everybody how to behave. The month "December" had been printed on the notices but the date was left blank.

PEARL HARBOR ATTACK MADE WHILE U. S. ENVOY CONFERRING WITH TOGO

Pearl Harbor—which started almost at the moment Togo was with Grew.

Togo seemed to think the midnight hurry and bustle was unnecessary; that a morning conference should have been adequate.

Most Americans in Tokyo naturally were unaware of the momentous developments. Besides missionaries and the embassy staff, only correspondents and National City Bank of New York and Standard Oil employees remained.

Virtually all of them were rounded up quickly by squads of gendarmes and police and marched off to prison or internment begins and early Monday morning.

Three nights—was emphasized by the British Air Ministry's acknowledgment that 32 bombers were missing; three more than were lost in Sunday night's 600-plane attack on the German U-boat nest.

The attack followed within a few hours after Britain's Air Marshal Sir Arthur T. Harris broadcast to Germany a warning of gigantic new blows to come.

"All that has happened so far will seem very little," Sir Arthur said. "You have no chance. . . . Soon we shall be coming every night and every day. . . . rain, blow or storm—we and the Americans."

On the Russian front, Adolf Hitler's armored columns knifed deeper into the Caucasus in a drive from Rostov, racing over a

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, July 29.—(P)—

Wheat prices fell another cent a bushel at one stage today, September contracts reaching $1.17, a new low for the season, but the market rallied later to recover the loss.

War news and sluggish flour trade accounted for early weakness. Later the market was strengthened by removal of hedges against wheat sold for shipment to outside mills and by indications that increased quantities of breadstuff will be fed to livestock, with the government attempting to stimulate the program.

Rallying more than a cent from early lows, wheat closed unchanged to 3/4 cent higher compared with yesterday, Sept. 1.18 1/4-1/2, Dec. 1.21 1/2-3/4; corn unchanged to 1/2 cent up, Sept. 90c, Dec. 92 1/2-3/4; oats 1/4-3/4 cent higher; soybeans 1 1/2-1 3/4 cent higher; rye 1/4-1/2 cent up.

Strength of oats reflected light receipts, moderate shipping business and reports of disappointing yields and harvest delays in some sections of the belt. Soybeans, up more than 2 cents at one time, responded to buying which traders attributed to sales of crude oil to refiners.

NAZI SPIES CHALLENGE POWERS OF PRESIDENT BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Douglas was en route and would participate.

There was no announced explanation of Murphy's absence but it had been speculated previously that he might disqualify himself as he has been serving in the army.

Stone, addressing himself to attorney General Biddle, said he was informed that his son (Major Lauson H. Stone) was assigned to the defense staff and asked Biddle if it were true.

Biddle replied that the defense and prosecution staffs were agreed that the Major's son did not participate in the habeas corpus proceeding, adding that "counsel for both sides join in urging you to sit."

"You may proceed," the chief justice said by way of ending any question as to whether he would participate.

"In the case of two more petitioners," the brief said, "this testimony was definitely corroborated by other evidence produced by the prosecution. All of the petitioners deny their guilt."

countrymen described by the Russians as "flat as a billiard table. . . ideal for tank operations."

Soviet dispatches said the Germans were striking toward Kuchevka, 45 miles due south of Rostov, on a route paralleling the Rostov-Baku railway and oil pipeline, but declared the invaders were suffering bloody losses.

A single Russian infantry force was credited with wiping out 10-800 Germans in 10 days of fighting at Voronezh on the upper Don, the scene of the original push in Hitler's grand offensive. Here, at least, the Russians appeared to be slightly more than holding their own.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, July 29.—(P)—

The stock market worked a little lower today after a trendless performance.

Brokers could find a lot of justification for buyer inaction—the unrelied threat to the Caucasus and a new crop of June quarter earnings statements reflecting the stiff impact of proposed new taxes—but despite the bearish news background the majority of leaders recorded only moderate losses.

Selling was of the quiet variety and a few pivots were resistant.

Spectacular Fair Pageant Impressive and Enjoyable

ONE OF THE BEST EVER PRESENTED IN THIS COUNTY

Will Be Repeated During
Wednesday and Thursday
Nights at Fair

"America on Parade", the spectacular and colorful patriotic pageant which features three nights of the Fayette County Fair this week, was given its first presentation Tuesday night, and while the audience was definitely small, the pageant went over with a bang, as attested by frequent outbursts of applause as highlight followed highlight in the big show.

The consensus of those who saw the pageant Tuesday night, was that it is worthwhile, and those who love the spectacular and a out-of-the-ordinary will find it very much to their liking.

A wonderful full moon, riding in a cloud-studded sky, formed an unforgettable background. The pageant, to be repeated Wednesday night and Thursday night, is presented by all residents from the city and county, under the direction of Leo Spaeth, veteran pageantmaster with John B. Rodgers Producing Co., who worked on the pageant exactly seven days.

Outstanding costumes in bright colors, and these, coupled with the great number of vari-colored banners, with the American Flag dominating, combine to make the pageant one not soon forgotten.

The pageant was presented in front of the grandstand, with most of it on the race track, and special settings on the large stage erected on the south side of the track.

The W. H. S. Band under direction of Paul Fitzwater, gave a concert preceding the show.

Coupled with the appropriate phonographic music, were the piano numbers of Miss Mary Jean Gage, all amplified by a sound system.

Music in keeping with the scenes produced was used effectively.

The narration work of Maynard Craig, Charles Hyer and Miss Joan Wilson—a vital part of the entire production—was outstanding and thoroughly enjoyed.

The success of the pageant hinged upon the narrators, and they acquitted themselves with honors.

Flood lights turned the great open theater into daylight.

There was not a dull moment from start to finish, and while newness was apparent in some phases of the event, generally speaking the 200 persons taking part in the affair did their part like veterans.

Men, women and children from throughout the community participate in the pageant, with Miss Betty Coil taking the part of Miss Fayette County, and Miss Alma Jane Norris the part of Miss Columbia.

The numerous drills and dances were unusually colorful. Opening with a drill by the Royal Guards, the pageant runs through from the old Spanish Court scenes, down to the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, to the present day.

The early days in America, from the Pilgrims on through the years, depicted by groups in appropriate costumes carrying out outstanding events, pass in parade.

Betsy Ross, making the first American Flag in a little house in Baltimore, is one of the most impressive scenes.

The inauguration of Washington, Lincoln's farewell at Springfield, Ill., the gold rush to the west and hardships of the western pioneers, with a realistic battle between the sturdy pioneers with their caravan and the Indians.

Outstanding in the western pioneer part of the program is the very appropriate music, the ever beautiful "Pomp and Circumstance" which gives an added thrill as it is played and sung.

One of the several dances is the Virginia Reel, which is put on with a pep and will that is delightful.

Advent of the horseless carriage is depicted, and life in

BOY SCOUT CAMP AT FAIRGROUNDS HERE DEDICATED

Impressive Ceremonies Held For Formal Presentation Tuesday Evening

Boy Scout Camp Wa-Co-Ho was formally opened and dedicated at the Fair Grounds Tuesday at 7:45 P. M. with an impressive ceremony.

A. B. Murray, chairman of the Fayette County Boy Scout committee was in charge of ceremonies. He introduced the various committee members, introducing them to the Scouts and clarifying each member's duties. In his remarks he stressed the importance of scouting to the nation in this time of stress, and that the Boy Scouts were called upon more and more to share the burden of aiding their country. In his remarks about the opening of the camp, he said, "This has been dreamed of many times by both the Fair board and the Scout committee, at last it is a reality and a great step forward to future activities and progress."

Rev. Fred Mark, Scoutmaster of Troop 32, was called upon to give the invocation and prayer of dedication, in which he dedicated the lives of Scouts to the service of God and their country.

City Manager, Edwin Ducey, accompanied by Police Captain Jess Ellis, and Fire Chief George Hall, raised the flag upon the natural 35 foot flag pole. This flag was the city building flag.

As the flag reached the top of the pole, all Scouts and Scouters gave the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. Following this, H. R. Layman, field organizer, officially presented the Camp Wa-Co-Ho to the Fair board using a model tomahawk as the key to the camp, and dedicating its use to "the teaching of the youth the secrets and ways of nature, for the betterment of the lives of youth, and the nation, also a camp of peace and not war, but to defend even in war if necessary."

T. H. Craig, Jr., accepting the key of the camp, returned it to Layman, with the remark that "the Fair board would gladly accept the camp as a permanent part of the Fair and that in returning the key, were leaving it open for scouting, not only during Fair week but the entire year."

The ceremony was closed by all Scouts saying the Scout oath led by J. W. Yates, Scoutmaster Troop 170.

Quite a number of Fair visitors witnessed the ceremony, and afterwards examined the work of the boys.

ELEVEN COLORED MEN WILL DEPART FRIDAY

Eleven colored men from Fayette County will be inducted into the military service Friday.

They will report at the Selective Service Board's office at 9 A. M. and leave by bus a half an hour later.

Washington C. H. in the "gay nineties" brings a laugh. A drill by the U. S. A. Girls is delight to see.

As the grand finale, the entire cast appears on the scene and forms a spectacular "wheel of life" which is highly colorful and impressive, with scores of banners fluttering, the vari-colored costumes flashing in the glare of the floodlights, and the entire wheel in motion.

The cast and audience sing "The Star Spangled Banner", bringing to a close one of the best pageants ever presented in the county.

PATRIOTIC TALK BY SCHOOL MAN AT ROTARY CLUB

Plea Made for Support of Officials During Time Of War and Stress

H. C. Dieterich, superintendent of the Bexley schools, was the speaker featured on the program at the Rotarian luncheon at the Country Club Tuesday noon, his brief talk being on "This Country of Ours."

The speaker's remarks were of a patriotic character in which he spoke of our national heritage, our possibilities, our liberty and our countless assets toward which, he declared, we have a vital responsibility which we dare not ignore if we are to be worthy of what our forefathers have handed down to us.

He made an earnest plea that all citizens give to our public officials full support in our present period of trial and war worry, and to avoid cutting down the efficiency of those officials by useless and unfair criticism as long as such officials are giving the people their patriotic, honest and conscientious service and doing their best to aid our national war effort.

It was announced that on next Tuesday the speaker will be Marguerite Reilly, of Cleveland, who is superintendent of the Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville. She is prominent in Ohio as a public speaker and will talk on the subject "Women's Morale in War."

All the wives of Rotarians are invited to attend this luncheon meeting as the talk to be given will be of special interest to Rotary Annals.
